*Gas Stoves for Summer Use*

Are rapidly displacing Wood, Coal and Chaolis tor rooking purposes. No bringing of coal nor wood, no ashes, no dust; alw a ready and PERFECTLY SAFE meals can be cooked in anorter time, and with these annoyance from heat, than by any other method. Where used they have given perfect satisfaction; cost no greater than that of an ordinary wood stove. Ladies who have used them declare that they are independently, especially in Summer, and they COULD NOT KEEP HOUSE

The Gas Company proposes to make a

NET PRICE OF $1.50 PER THOUSAND FEET,

From May 1 to Oct. 1, to ALL PERSONS USING FOR COOKING PURPOSES. Read the following opinions from well-known ladies who have used that Stoves

> R. J. STRATTON, Supt. of Decatur Caslight and Coke Co.

R. J. Straveron, Sup't Dear Sir: I am using a No. 7 Gas Range, and it is with pleasure that I bear witness to its many good qualities. For utility, elemniness, confort and economy, it is all I could desire; anything can be cooked on it that can be cooked on any stove, with, in my opinion, less expense, and certainly with less trouble and more comfort. I cheerfully recommend it.

Yours Truly. MRS. HENRY ELWOOD.

IMs. E. J. Stratton, Supt.—Dear Sir: I want to say to you that the gas stove you farmished to me last Summer is much more satisfactory than I had hoped for I can do every kind of cooking with it, and the regularity of the heat gives better results than any other stove. I should not desire to keep house without it.

MRS. FRANK H. HALL.

R. J. Stratton, Supt. - Dear Sir: I have in use one of your Gas Cooking Ranges and so a matter of convenience and comfort it is unsurpassed, and is all you claim for it are confined by the same and its second and is all you claim. for it—gas costing about the same as oil or coal, DECATUR, ILLINOIS, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1889.

Speaking of the toll gate near the 'pool, which was the last on the old Boston and Albany line to be torn down, recalls to memory an amusing incident which old Dr. Shaw, its keeper, used to

Shaw used to travel with an old venerloquist by the name of Potter some years before he began to tend the gate, and he was a pretty clever magician, the doctor was, so the two hitched up well

Well, the story goes that Potter and Shaw were riding in 'Reub' Underwood's coach over the Monson and Southbridge line, and the vehicle was crowded with passengers who considered themselves party high tones folks and Lemes they protty high toned folks, and I guess they

At any rate when the stage arrived

d Southbridge they all got out and went into the tayern there to get dinner. The party sat down at the table and Potter, he ventriloquist, who was a stranger to all excepting Shaw, came in after taking a sip of "toddy" and sat down also at the same table. A roast plg was brought in m a platter by the servant and set upon the table, and just after one member of he party had finished saying grace and began carving the pig, it squealed ter-rifically, and the majority of the mempers of the party not knowing that Potter was a vontriloquist, as I said, thought for a moment that the pig was alive, and after screeching and screaming, the carver simultaneously throwing his knife and fork across the dining room, got up and left the table, leaving Potter and Shaw to finish the pig.—

He stood on the steps of the City Hall yesterday and blew his nose and wiped his eyes and stendied himself by one of the stone columns, and when he was asked if he were ill he repiled;

"You be! I'm ill! 'Tain't in the body but right here—right here in the heart!"
"Are you subject to heart trouble?"
"You bet! Heart's allus been troubled.

That's why I drink." "Have you been drinking?" "Course I have, I'm three drinks high. That's why I cry. When I get about half drunk I feel so sad and lonesome that I wouldn't give a frozen banama to live another day."

"Do you feel that way now?" "I do. I don't enro to live another minute. Pd welcome death with out-stretched arms!"

"Poor man!" Don't! Sympathy allos breaks me down. Three drinks and a few kind words make a child of me. Please go away and let me stand here and freeze to death. I'm no good on earth. I want

The policeman on duty in the lower corridor was informed of the case, and he went out and gave the man the collar. Presto change! He had scarcely got hold of him when the sorrowful hearted began to resist in the most vigorous manner, and as he was finally landed in the patrol wagon he called out: "Old fel, I've got rry eye on you, and I want to live a thousand years to get even!"--Detroit Free Press.

Most people are aware that Gen. W. T. sherman is a resident of New York, and that he is one of the most tireless of theatre goers. He is a first nighter, and usually a conspicuous figure on an aisle seat or in a proscendum box. A pecullarity of the general's is that be seems to forget that any one besides himself is in the theatre. He talks to his companion + BOSTON STORE. + about the people on the stage in a tone of voice easily audible up in the balcony. He coughs, clears his throat, blows his nose with a sound like a steam whistle, and actually bellows out his remarks without regard of his surroundings. The other night at one of the fushionable other night at one of the reaction of the linear three in Chane houses he broke in upon a perfectly sillent bit of stage action, which was being hard State of ILLANOIS, Macon Charty, in worked out by a young actress, with the stenforian praise of:

"She's going to make an actress." Everybody near blm stared and then laughed. The general did not appear to ble aware he had been heard, coughed, blew his nose nudibly, and then settled back into his blg collar with a loud grunt of utter contentment. At that theatre, where everybody knows the old warrior, his rumbling interruptions are accepted good insturedly.—New York Letter to Pittsburg Post.

"Green's Paneral Tane."

The Listener knows a distinguished musical critic who has a playful side to his character and, who, for instance, had the performance of "Verill's Requiem Mass" down on his budget of memoranda the other day as "Green's funeral tune," At the hall the Listener encountered the great critic as he was coming

"How did you like it?" asked the IJst-oner.

"It was great: I think I never heard the tune played so well in my life."

And he passed on. Just behind the Listener were two good looking girls, who had been in a state of perfunctory rapture over the performance. One of Lot 1, Ladies' Black Jersey Waists, $1.00 them whispered to her companion:

Complete Rest.

Fred's mamma was not at all well, and the doctor said she must "take a complete rest" at once. So presently the family took wing for Northport, in the wilds of Maine. The first night of their sojourn there mamma was putting Fred to bed, and, as usual, called him to her side to say his prayers. The little fellow's face was an interrogation point of astonishment and dismay, and no persunsion could induce him to pray. Mam-ma looked puzzled and grieved; whereupon her little son, with an unlifting of his small png nose suggestive of infinite disgust, proceeded to culighten her mind: "Why, mamma! the dector said we must take a complete rest!"-New York Trib-

A Woman's Discovery. "Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her; for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incssantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free taial bottle at Dr. A. J. Stoner's Drug Store.

Agricultural Experiment Stations and the Department of Agriculture. Washington, April 10—The first docu-ment published under the authority of Governor Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture, is Bulletin No 1 about the agricultural experiment stations of the Department of Agriculture This pemphlot advance copies of which were fundahed to the proved last night, contains a great dual of information relating to the history and prosperts of the agricultural experiment state is which are now conducting sci-entific and practical experiments on soils, manurer tilinge trops, stock-feeding, darying, north alture, etc., in the differ-ent States. Such institutions for scientific investigation in behalf of agriculture Last evening there was a grand concert given at the A M I. Church under the management of Mis Lowis Steward, assisted by Mrs. Robert Fainest and Miss toen years ago Other States followed the example, and in 1887 Congress os-poused the enterprise and appropriated $15 000 per annum to each State and Terrilory for the purpose. The enterprise has onlisted in its support the best universities and colleges, and the ablest invertigators of the country, as well as a groat army of practical farmers, to whom it has already brought substantial bene-

> All the States and one Territory (Dakota) now have agricultural organiment stations. Several States have two, Lou-lyiana has three. The total number now in operation is forty-six, or, counting branch stations, nearly sixty. They em-pley more than three hundred and seventy scientists and agriculturists and re-ceive this year $595,000 from the National Hovernment, and about $125,000 from the tinles and other sources. This is one of the most important of the (lovernment a londing enterprises, and although to young, is the largest of the sort yet under-taken by any Nation

An especially favorable feature is the cordial relations between the stations and the Department of Agriculture at Washington which is charged by Congrees with the duty of supervising and aiding the stations in their work. The office of experiment stations acting with the Association of Agricultural Colleges and I speriment Stations, ir abte to accomplish much in this line. There is thus established a direct connection be-tween the National Department and tha prople of the country, which must result in great good The bulletin contains an introduction by Secretary Rusk, who considers it a high tribute to the wisdom and intellirance of the people that they have so tap idly appreciated the usefulness of the "calling the highest science to the did of the arts and industries of life."

The afternoon session of the Home

Missionary Society was one of especial interest and profit. There was a large andienco present, Mrs. Hinton conducting the praise meeting, Mrs. Ensley Moore, of Jacksonville, read a paper on The Curso of Caman; Mrs. L. M. Glover, the president, answered the queries; Mrs. Charles Drury rend a paper on "Practical Experience in Homo Mission Life," and Miss Lina Stryker, of Lincoln, read a paper on "Our Mormon Neighbor." "The Address from the Field" was the topic assigned Miss Alice Robertson, a bright young woman who has grown up among the seven envilwed tribes in the Indian Torritory, and has devoted her maidenhood to teaching the young Indian girls the Way of Lafe and how to become useful among their own people. She has a large school of girls at Muskogee, sustained by the home society. She talked about the daughters" in a tumber, motherly fashion, speaking of their agnorance, their reed of help, their aptitude to learn and their gradual awakening into a ! nowledge of the life and enjoyment of a christian Miss Robertson's recital come from the heart. Her feeling appeals for christian charity and farmess for the poor Indian affected many to tems, the speaker berself becoming chaked with smotion. Her opening remarks in reference to the flowers reflected the nobleness of her soul. She stated that the opening of Oklahoma was the death knell to the 300,000 Indians left upon American soil, for now they have no home of their own they must become civilized or stand with folded arms and meet their doon:. RENNEY, LLL, April 6th, 1889.

Robbery at Elwin.

The store of A. F. Hopkins at Elwin was broken into on the night of April S. The burglars failing to find any money in the drawer proceeded to examine the show-case directly over the money box, and took therefrom about $10 worth of entlery, mostly two and three bladed pocket knives. Jewelry and other valuables in the same case were not disturbed. The double doors were forced open by a beavy oak scantling. A number of tramps were in the village on that day, and five of them were seen on the morn ing after the robbery was discovered, but they did not seem to be the right men The case has been reported to Marshal Mason, who may succeed in capturing the villams.

It Was a Treat.

The last of the series of concerts given by Goodman's Band was beard at the opera house last night, in the presence of a larger audience than has ever heard any one of the excellent entertainments. The band was assisted by the Opera House Orchestra, both organizations rendering the program in a faultless manner. Genorons applanse was bestowed upon sli the musicians. It was a foast of high class and popular music, both the band and orchostra acquitting themselves aplondidly in concerted and solo numbers-Prof. Walter directed the band, and Prof. Bull the orchestra. Decatur is fortunate in having such superb musical organizations. They are the pride of the city. We hope to hear the band in the New Grand Opers House. B. F. BOYNTON.

Hidden away in the weekly gossip col umn of The Birmingham Post is the following remarkable account of the change which has come over his royal highnes

"We are all Socialists at heart," said the Prince of Wales the other day, when talking to a statesman of the old school, who was lamenting the progress of Socialism, "and this conviction readers the outward semblance of Conservatism more and more difficult to maintain." This feeling on the part of his royal highness, combined with the accessity of upholding the old institutions at court, anst have rendered the prince's position rksome at times. Report declares that he has for many seasons been using overy endeavor to establish discipline among the ladies and gentlemen of the court circle by observance of the strict rules of etiquette established in the early part of the present reign. During the long retirement of her majesty after the great addiction which befell her, the discipline she had established grew somewhat relaxed, and varione court seemdals served to point the moral and adorn the tale of the stump orators and brawling demagogues, who onamed unmolested in their attacks. until it became difficult to put them town. The Prince of Wales was only awakened to the necessity of assuming the responsibility of his position by his wn name being unjustly cetapromised, and he then resolved to restore the dignity of the court, which had been suffered to become a prey to the slanders of the Socialistic party. He has been for ome time pursuing his task, not of restoring, but modifying, the severity of the aurient costaines, so as to render them tolerable both to the courtiers of the past and those of today. The idea of dispensing with the bure necks and anked alcoulders of the ladies frequenting her majesty's drawing room seems to but the first step in this direction, and, it is said, cmanates from the prince himself, who, being present at a court reception | drawers. at Vienna, was struck with the dignity and propriety of the dresses of the ladies The queen was much averse to the change; but the Princess of Wales urged Napoleon's Memory.

A gentleman once said, in Wellington's presence, that great memories are generally the sign of great talents, and destanced Napoleon, who could single out soldiers in reviews and call them by name to step out of the ranks.

"That is a great mistake," replied the duke. "Til fell you how be managed it. One of his generals, Loban, used to get ready for lam a list of soldiers to be called out from each regiment. When Napolcon rode up opposite to a regiment he would call out the name of the soldier to be honored, and the man would step forward- that was all.

"I also doubt the goodness of his mem-ory," continued the duke, "from the obseness and innecuracy of his statement—In his works—I mean all that he has ever written—you never find a hing related precisely as it happened, He scene, to have no clear nor distinct recollection; scarcely once has be ever tripped into truth?

in another conversation Wellington said that Napoleon's genius made him so pre-emment that all of his marshals seemed inferior to him. "He suited a French atmy exactly, and at their head there never was anything like him. I used to say of him that his presence on the field made the difference of forty thousand men.

The devotion of the French army to Napoleon is filmstrated by the fact that several of the French misoners, wounded at Waterloo shouted during the agony of amputation, "Vive TEmpereurl"-Youth's Companion.

Lugiish Sovelists and Their Earnings. With regard, writes a well informed orrespondent, to a paragraph in your "Literary Notes" of Saturday, on the subject of the gain; of novelists, I beeve you are right in stiting that the highest price ever pant for an English work of fiction was the £12,000 which Lord Beaconstleld received from Messis, Longman for "Endy-mion," and, by the way, they made a very bad bargain. He also obtamed from the same firm nearly as big a price for "Lothair." George Ellot, who received 27,000 for "Romola," made, from first to last, quite $10,000 by at least one of her novels, in which she retained a large share of the copyright. Including American and foreign rights, Dickens was to have received £9,000 for "Edwin Drood" Wilkie Collins received $5,250 for "Armadale,"

Of Sir Walter Scott's novels, "Woodstock" produced about £8,200, and as ho was writing at the same time the "Life of Napoleon," the first and second editions of which realized £18,000, he made fineluding stras received for reviews and other minor works) £28,000 in the course of eighteen mouths! Thackeray was to have received a very high price for "Denis Daval," the story he was writing when he died; but the largest sum he over was pand was, I believe, a trifle under the cook which, he desired for the over was paid was, I believe, a trille under £5,000, which he obtained for "The Newcotnes," (foing back a hundred years, we find Miss Burney obtaining £,000 guineas for "Cecilia," her second work, and this was probably the highest price paid until the Waverlev era.—St. James' Gazette.

The Hornbill's Defenses.

A traveler in South America writes We passed the nests of Feveral hornball birds. When they are ready to buy the nest is made in a hollow tree; the female goes within, leaving her whole immense bill starking out, and the male plasters the hole around it up with mud, that hardens at once; she lays her eggs and sits on them until They are hatched, the male feeding her all the time. The monkeys and snakes looking for eggs see this formulable locking beak sticking out of the hole and are afraid to tackle it so she hatches in peace. The poor male in feeding her gets so poor that he can hardly fly.—Philadelphia Times.

The Verdict Unanimous. W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifles; "I can recommond Electric Bitters as the very lest remody. Every lottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing."
Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, afflems: "The best selling medicine I have ever hundled in my 20 years' experience is Electric Bitters." Last evening there was a grand concert given at the A. M. E. Church under the management of Mis. Lewis Steward, assisted by Mrs. Robert Farnest and Miss Mary Love. The concert comprised aniabers by small Bunday whool children, and the example, and in 1887. Congress osnusbers by small Bunday whool children, and the enterprise and appropriated the example. There was singing, speeches, dislogues and dramms. The concert lasted for three hours and every play went on so musly that the mass of humanity that filled the church did not want to see the entertuinment stop. After the concert there was a sociable given in the basement of the church, where all went and enjoyed themselves. It was pronounced by all to be the finest and grandes! ever viven in the history of the church. The concert closed with a tableau rad was pronounced the finest on record.

Affairs at Paname WASHINGTON, April 10 .- The State Department has learned through Mr. Adamson, the Consul-General at Pana-

un, that the disturbances which were fented owing to the stoppage of work of the caust have not occurred, and tha good order prevails in that locality. The Inhorers who were thrown out of work were rapidly leaving the whites going to Chili and the negroes to Jamaica.

Mercantile failures have necessarily been numerous, and many solvent house have closed their affairs, as business could no longer be continued with profit.

Many merchants were turning their altention to Porto Re a, where railroad works were gising employment to many hands, that in Jamaica, American capitalists are projecting extensive enterprises of a sim-dar nature. During the past year no les than ten thousand laborers have left the canal. The officers of the company have directed the continuance of work at sev

oral points on the line, but it is thought this is only to prevent questions arising from total abondonment, and to protec

the property, which has already suffered from the depredations of thieves, until purchasers can be found. In conclusion,

Mr. Adamson says. "The Panama Canal is virtually dead"

Secretary Windom on the Foreign Contract Law.

Washington, April 10. - Secretary Washington, April 10.5 Sections, Windom yestorday made his first ruling concerning the Foreign Contract law, by affirming a decision made by the Collector of customs at New York, in regard to a Swiss embroidorer. The latter came to this country to werk in the Newark (N. J.) Embroidering-works, or which H. Borneman is proprietor. The Swiss cialmed that he had paid his own passage to this country, but had secured work with the firm before leaving Switzerland. The collector held that a contract had been made between the embroideringworks and the Swiss, and on account of the Secretary's decision he will bring the case to the attention of the district-attorney at New York.

Robbery at Elwin.

The store of A. F. Hopkins at Elwin was broken into on the night of April 8. The burglars failing to find any money in the drawer proceeded to examine the show-case directly over the money box, and took therefrom about $10 worth of entlery, mostly two and three bladed pocket knives. Jewelry and other valuables in the same case were not disturbed. The double doors were forced open by a beavy oak scantling. A number of tramps were in the village on that day, and five of them were seen on the morn ing after the robbery was discovered, but they did not seem to be the right men, The case has been reported to Marshal Mason, who may succeed in capturing the villama.

B. F. BOYNTON.

"We are all Socialists at heart," said the Prince of Wales the other day, when talking to a statesman of the old school, who was lamenting the progress of Socialism. "and this conviction renders the outward semblance of Conservatism more and more difficult to maintain."
This feeling on the part of his royal upholding the old institutions at court. must have rendered the prince's position rksome at times. Report declares that he has for many seasons been using overy endeavor to establish discipline among the ladies and gentlemen of the cour circle by observance of the strict rules of cuquette established in the early part of he present reign. During the long retirement of her majesty after the great addiction which befell her, the discipline she had established grew somewhat relaxed, and varims court seandals served to point the moral and adorn the tale of the stump rators and brawling demagogues, who emained unmolested in their attacks. until it became difficult to put them hown. The Prince of Wales was only awakened to the necessity of assuming the responsibility of his position by his own name being unjustly compromised, and he then resolved to restore the dignity of the court, which had been suffered to become a prey to the slanders of the Socialistic party. He has been for ome time pursuing his task, not of restoring, but modifying, the severity of the aurient costaines, so as to render them tolerable both to the courtiers of the past and those of today. The idea of dispensing with the bure neeks and anked alcoulders of the ladies frequenting her majesty's drawing room seems to be the first step in this direction, and, it is said, emanates from the prince himself, who, being present at a court reception

Sapaleon's Memory.

A gentleman once said, in Wellington's presence, that great memories are generally the sign of great talents, and instanced Napoleon, who could single out soldiers in reviews and call them by name to step out of the ranks.

"That is a great mistake," replied the duke. "I'll tell you how he managed it. One of his generals, Loban, used to get ready for him a list of soldiers to be called out from each regiment. When Napolcon rode up opposite to a regiment he would call out the name of the soldier to be honored, and the man would step

"I also doubt the goodness of his mem-ory," continued the duke, "from the on a new and inneuracy of his statement. In his works-I mean all that ho has over written-you never find a thing related precisely as it happened. He seems to have no clear nor distinct recollection; scarcely once has he ever tripped into truth?

In another conversation Wellington said that Napoleon's genius made him so pre-emment that all of his marshals seemed inferior to him. "He suited a French atmy exactly, and at their head there never was anything like him. I used to say of him that his presence on the field made the difference of forty thousand men.

The devotion of the French army to Napoleon is illustrated by the fact that several of the French prisoners wounded at Waterloo shouled during the agony of amputation, "Vivo TEmperenr!"--Youth's Companion.

Lugiish Sovelists and Their Earnings. With regard, writes a well informed correspondent to a paragraph in your "Literary Notes" of Saturday, on the subject of the gains of novelists, I believe you are right in stiting that the highest price ever pand for an English work of fiction was the £12,000 which Lord Bearonsfield received from Messis, Longman for "Endy-mion," and, by the way, they made a very bad bargain. He also obtained from the same firm nearly as big a price for "Lothair." George Ellot, who received 27,000 for "Romola," made, from first to last, quite £10,000 by at least one of her novels, in which she retained a large share of the copyright. Including American and foreign rights, Dickens was to have received £9,000 for "Edwin Drood" Wilkie Collins received $25,250 for "Armadale."

Of Sir Walter Scott's novels, "Woodstock" produced about £3,200, and as he was writing at the same time the "Life" of Napoleon," the first and second editions of which realized £18,000, he made (including sums received for reviews and other induor works) £28,000 in the course of eighteen months! Thackeray was to have received a very high price for "Dows Daval," the story he was writing when he died; but the largest sum he over was paid was, I believe, a trifle unbyer was paid was, I believe, a trille under £5,000, which he obtained for "The Newcomes," Going back a hundred years, we find Miss Burney obtaining £,000 guineas for "Cecilia," her second work, and this was probably the highest price paid until the Waverley era.—St. James' Gazette.

The Hornbill's Defenses.

A traveler in South America writes We passed the nests of Feveral hornfull birds. When they are ready to lay the nest is made in a hollow tree; the female goes within, leaving her whole immense bill starting out, and the male plasters the hole around it up with mad, that hardens at once; she lays her eggs and sits on them until they are hatched, the male feeding her all the time. The monkeys and snakes looking for eggs see this formidable looking beak sticking out of the hole and are afraid to tackle it so she hatches in peace. The poor male in feeding her gets so poor that he can hardly fly.—Philadelphia Times.

The Verdict Unanimous. W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifles: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remody. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case, One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rhenmatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, "Other beat astling," maderia, I Abraham Hare, denggist, Belleville, Ohio, Billruns; "The best selling medicine I have ever hundled in my 20 years' experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all chanases of the liver, kidneys or blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at Dr. A. J.
